From the Desk of the Pastor

Christ is risen, amen! Alleluia! He is truly risen, alleluia! Amen!

Ongoing pandemic, senseless warfare, increased violence, families suffering from inflation, economic uncertainty, homelessness, petty hostility between neighbors, and more continues to plague our world. Yet, we have reason to rejoice and be glad. Jesus rose from the dead so that we might have life and life abundantly. His resurrection changed the course of history towards God again. The gospels do not ground our faith in empty tombs or discarded burial cloths. Rather, gospel faith in the resurrection is built on the presence and witness of the risen Lord in human experience, in women and men who have received God's gift of faith and have had it nourished in the community of believers. That is why we continue to gather and celebrate the resurrection every Sunday because the Paschal Mystery that we commemorated these days of the Triduum is celebrated at every Eucharist. Christ is risen because our lives continue to be renewed and we are sent into the world to set it ablaze with God's sanctifying love. As the world faces a lot these days, may we, the Body of Christ, strive to make it better. May our hope be sustained by the joy and certain hope of the Resurrection. I leave you with the Solemn Blessing for the Masses of Easter:

"Now that the days of the Lord's Passion have drawn to a close, May you who celebrate the gladness of the Paschal feast come with Christ's help, and exulting in spirit, to those feasts that are celebrated with eternal joy."

Have a blessed Easter Octave!

EVERYTHING IS CHANGED

Easter changes everything. Having been raised from the dead, Jesus shatters the frightful images that haunt humanity. Betrayal, torture, crucifixion, death, burial—these terrors pale in the brilliant glory of Jesus resurrected. Today's psalm guides our response to God's power: "it is wonderful in our eyes." Today is indeed a day for wonder, for gasping in astonishment at Jesus' resurrection. For all of human history, death had been final. In the Acts of the Apostles, though, Peter testifies that Jesus, who was publicly executed, was raised to life by God. John's Gospel admits that the disciples "did not yet understand the Scripture that he had to rise from the dead." Even Jesus' closest friends were not expecting this innovation: life after death. In response to the Easter miracle, Paul tells us to become "a fresh batch of dough." Everything, even our very selves, must become new. Easter changes everything.

Stewardship Moment

Alive in Christ! That's what we are. Among the many readings of Easter, Saint Paul reflects on this "newness of life" in his letter to the Romans. The Christian life is a resurrected life. It is new life, one of truth, inner joy and genuine fulfillment. God has transformed our lives for all eternity, and that transformation is what it means to be a Christian. Do you know the resurrected life? Have you genuinely experienced it? Good stewards have; and in their commitment to the Lord, they know what it means to be alive in Christ. It is time to rejoice. He is risen! Alleluia!

Family Connection

In the Easter Gospel we hear about how the disciples found the tomb empty three days after Jesus' death. We are also told that they do not yet understand the Scriptures or that Jesus had been raised from the dead. That understanding gradually unfolded for the disciples as they began to experience the risen Lord. Similarly, our understanding of Jesus' Resurrection unfolds for us throughout our lives. In the weeks ahead, we will hear how the first disciples moved from confusion, doubt, and skepticism to faith. Their experience can teach us how we too might receive this gift of faith from God.

Gather your family members and ask them to share what they know about the events that happened in the days after Jesus' crucifixion. Invite your family to imagine that they are among Jesus' first disciples. Read together today's Gospel, John 20:1-9. Reflect together on the Gospel with questions such as these: If you had been among the first disciples who heard that the stone had been removed from Jesus' tomb and that Jesus' body was no longer there, what would you think? What did Mary of Magdala, Simon Peter, and the disciple whom Jesus loved think had happened? Recall that this experience is the first indication Jesus' disciples have that he is risen. Throughout the Easter season, we will learn more about how the disciples came to believe that Jesus had been raised from the dead. Pray together using today's psalm, Psalm 118: "This is the day the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad."

Pray

Pray this prayer to remain in Easter joy
Philip Kosloski - published on 04/21/19

"Preserve your servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness."

Easter for Christians is meant to be a time of joy and happiness, rejoicing in the beauty of the resurrection. St. Gregory the Great has a perfect prayer for this occasion, one that can be prayed throughout the Easter season.

It is only right, with all the powers of our heart and mind, to praise You Father and Your Only-Begotten Son, Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Dear Father, by Your wondrous condescension of Loving-Kindness toward us,
Your servants, You gave up Your Son.
Dear Jesus, You paid the debt of Adam for us to the Eternal Father by Your Blood poured forth in Loving-Kindness.
You cleared away the darkness of sin
by Your magnificent and radiant Resurrection.
You broke the bonds of death and rose from the grave as a Conqueror.
You reconciled Heaven and earth.
Our life had no hope of Eternal Happiness before You redeemed us.
Your Resurrection has washed away our sins, restored our innocence and brought us joy.
How inestimable is the tenderness of Your Love!
We pray You, Lord, to preserve Your servants in the peaceful enjoyment of this Easter happiness.
We ask this through Jesus Christ Our Lord,
Who lives and reigns with God The Father,
in the unity of the Holy Spirit, forever and ever. Amen.

Easter: New and abundant life for all
Mario J. Paredes - published on 04/01/18

Let it be Easter then every day. Let all our days witness our passage from the old to the new ...

During this time of year, the Catholic world prepares for the celebration of the most important holy day of the liturgical year: Easter—the Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

This essay will explore two aspects of this feast, two very important meanings that this holy day has for all of humanity, for the Christian world, and for our North American society.

First, the confession of faith in the Resurrection of Christ has a historical basis or reflection in the transformation of life experienced by the first Christians; these men and women recognized and proclaimed to each other and to non-Christians that they had become new men and women, with a transformed mentality. They were now able to understand the whole life project of Jesus of Nazareth; and now they could live out its principles and put them into practice, fueled by a new vision of God, of the world, and of the "other," their neighbor.

Some of the disciples who had accompanied Jesus in his travels and ministry—his first witnesses, his intimates, but who clumsily did not understand him, and instead denied and abandoned him—now were sent into the world. Two thousand years ago they began their mission proclaiming that Christ was alive, that he lived in them because he had radically changed, renewed, and transformed their lives. Now they were living out, in its fullness, the commandment to love; they recognized that all men are brothers, children of the same Father in heaven—just as Jesus had taught and shown them.

How much we all need this each and every day: this personal renewal and this transformation in order to become better human beings, to transform ourselves—to move forward. This is precisely what the word Pasch means in Hebrew: "to step," to step over and let go of resentments, fears, small and big hatreds, this focus on differences, intolerance, discrimination, quarrels, divisions, and all forms of violence and death. We all need to move forward toward new ways of understanding and living life—new, renewed and transformed ways of relating to each other. This makes coexistence possible, a coexistence that, even if it is not always fraternal, is at least humane and civilized!

For all of us, the first meaning of the Christian Easter is new life. And how much does this message of Easter not apply, with so much urgency and necessity, to our American society, in the here and now?

Grow

We are surrounded and distressed by a thousand forms of violence and death in our homes, our streets and our schools. We are overwhelmed by unemployment and dread of the future, fear of diseases and political uncertainty; then there is the use of drugs by so many people, especially the young, and the destruction addiction wreaks in so many families; plus, there is the loss or distortion of traditional values because of the primacy of having over being, the pursuit of pleasure and power at all costs—regardless of the means—as the ultimate goal of human existence, etc.

This reality threatens to suffocate the potential of human life and harms and hardens the coexistence of all of us in contemporary society. The situation clamors—with great urgency—for a transformation, a change, a metanoia, a new life. It clamors for people whose lives are transformed as well as the reconstruction and renewal of institutions so that they become more just, more supportive, and more humane.

Second—and inseparable from the power of Easter to transform lives—the confession of the Resurrection of Jesus signifies a triumph of life over death, a step away from failure and toward victory. Thus, Easter also stands for an “abundance of life” as the ultimate destiny of humankind, of every man and woman who comes into the world.

Today’s many ills, as mentioned, that afflict and distress individuals and society at large, call us to a daily task; we have a calling to progress from the bad to the good, from the inhuman to the human and humane, from the mediocre to our best selves, from lies and errors to the truth and honesty, from the twisted and confused to a clear conscience. We can make such progress through our words and in our actions, building up—through that step forward, that transformation, that novelty in our lives—the room for abundant life.

Let us embrace abundant life, so that, in our nation, it can manifest itself in the realms of law and politics, in economics, and in the quality of inter-communal and interpersonal relations, in the world of art and sciences, in the exercise of our professions and in all our daily tasks, and so too in the world of entertainment, recreation and sports, in our religious practice, etc.

Our society—proud of and enriched by so many material achievements—is the stage for so many accomplishments and the reason for so much hope for so many who have come here or dream of doing so. Yet, at the same time, within and without our borders, there are so many who are suffering the pain of unfulfilled dreams, unfulfilled longings, and dashed hopes; the pain of a thousand injuries inflicted by unjust and inhuman ways of life. All of this demands from us that we embrace a new life—and invite others to do the same—to embrace Easter’s promise of an abundant life, the prosperous, full and happy life for which we all yearn.

Let it be Easter then every day. Let all our days witness our passage from the old to the new, and from scarcity, and petty and precarious ways of life, to a truly abundant life!

Reflect

“Let us go forward with the joy of Jesus’ Resurrection, knowing He is always by our side!” – Pope Francis

Alleluia! He is truly Risen! Easter is a time of celebrating JOY in Jesus’ Resurrection. We rejoice in the Risen Jesus. We rejoice in the empty tomb. We rejoice that Jesus rose from dead. Let us share in the joy and love that God has bestowed for us through His Son, Jesus, who conquered sin and death. Wishing you and you ‘ohana a blessed and joyful Easter season.

St. John Henry Newman, pray for us!
